ON THE VERGE OF SUICIDE HENRY GALWAY CLIMBS ON THE RAIL OF THE BIG BRIDGE,

A Long Ros of Bad Luck Drives Him to Despair - His Wife and Six Children Without Fire or Food in a Tenement. A sound as of some one kicking against the iron railing near by attracted the attention of Bridge Policeman J. G. Wills, who was patrolling the south roadway near the New York tower of the Brooklyn Bridge at 9:10 o'clock yesterday morning, and, turning around, he saw a tall man, dressed in black, who was trying to scale the south railing a few feet west of the tower, and had got his head well over the rall when his foot had slipped, and thus attracted attention. The policeman made a rush for the man, and grabbed the skirts of his coat in time to prevent him flinging himself down on a big stock of naval stores that formed the cargo of a seew tied up alongside the pier one hundred and odd feet below. The prisoner

The roundsman took the prisoner over to the Bridge station. Here he said his name was Henry Galway of 322 Henry street, this city. where he had a wife and six children. He had been out of work several weeks, had spent all his money for food, which gave out several days his money for tood, which gave out several days ago. He had been made desperate by hearing his children ary for something to oat, and had determined to kill himself. He had paid his last cent to get out on the bridge. He broke down completely when he mentioned his children. In his pockets were found a pair of selssors, a stub of a lend pencil, and this note, written on a crumpled bit of paper, in neat handwriting:

My Duas Wirk: I hope you will foreive me and pray

MAD MAR WIFE: I hope you will forgive me and pray for me, as I cannot stand it any longer to see you and my dear children starving. Good by, and may dod look after you and them. employment. Your fond but unfortunate husband,

It was plain that the man's distress was real,
and the polleemen present chipped in $4, which was put in the hands of Sergeant Phillips, who was sent out to investigate the case, and if the statements were found truthful, to relieve the immediate wants of the family. Galway was then taken before Justice Waish and held for examination until Saturday.

Bergeant Phillips found Mrs. Galway in two rooms on the too theor, rear, of a six-story tenement. There was no fire in the stove, and the children and their mother were in summer clothing. It was bad in quality as well as thin in texture. The youngest were crying for something to eat, none of them having had any breakfast or supper the night before. The story which the woman told was verified by the neighbors, a woman on the same floor saying that the only food that any of the family had had on Tuesday was some bread and butter which she had been able to epare them, but she was so poor herself that she could not do anthing more for them.

The Respeant acon had a fire burning in the

had on Tunsday was some bread and butter which she had been able to spare them, but she was so poor herself that she could not do anthing more for them.

The fragreat soon had a fire burning in the Galway stove and such a quantity of substantial food on the table as made one of the children ask whether he wasn't Santa Claus bringing Christmas fare.

When a reporter called to see Mrs. Galway later in the day she said she had lived in that house for two years, occupying unfil recently four rooms, for which they paid $9 a month. They had moved into the two rooms, for which they were to pay $6.50 a month, when Galway got out of work. They lived at 128 Madison street for six years before moving into Henry street. Galway was a bartender, but, having lost his place some months ago, he worked as a helper to the marble workers in the new Equitable building until that job was done. Then he got a place on the west side as a waiter, for which he was paid $4 a week. That job was lost several weeks ago, and since then he had vainly walked the streets trying to got something to do. She has six children—Willis, and almost 10; Charley, 8; Mary, 6; Anna, 4; distry, 2, and Lillis, 8 months. When asked why they had not applied to some charitable society for help to tide over affairs until he could got work, she said her husband had a good deal rather die first and so would she. All she wanted was that her husband could get free again and get work.

Ail she wanted was that her husband could get free again and get work.

Mrs. Eilen Smith, a neighbor, said she had known Galway ever since he was a boy in county Cork, Ireland. He had been married 12 years, and had always lived comfortably, until this run of bad luck came. No one would have known the family was in distress if it had not been for the children, who, seeing their neighbors eating, were less stoical than their parents under the pangs of hunger. The family had paid their rent regularly until the first of this month, but last month's rent was paid with money which Galway borrowed of a friend. Galway expected to be served with a dispossess notice every day. He was sober and kind to his family. None of the neighbors had ever seen him drunk even when he was prosperous.

respectus. Although Mrs. Galway apologized for the irt in the rooms, because she had been unable to work much for several days, they were leaser than the run of tenement apartments, leaser than the run of the halls of the building. The walls were hung with cheap prints, walls were hung with cheap prints, one bed, one hair cloth sofs, three There was one bed, one hair cloth sofa, three hair cloth chairs, a sewing machine, a bed, a beby carriage, a small stand, and a clothes press in one room, and a small stove, a couple of chairs, a table, and a small stove, a couple of chairs, a table, and a small cupboard fairly furnished with dishes in the other. The family seemed to have been fairly well off, as tenement house dwellers go, until caught by this misfortune. In talking to the reporter Mrs. Galway seemed quite as much distressed by the fact that her troubles were to be printed in the papers as by the trouble itself. The suggestion that a fair statement of her case might bring her aid did not want anybody's charity, or any other help than what would get her husband released and get something for him to do.

PLENTY OF HELP FOR MRS. HUGHES. Weman who was Starving at 103 has Enough to Last All Winter Now,

Mrs. Ann Hughes, aged 102, of 19 Spring street, who was reported in THE SUN yesterday as dying of starvation, was feeling very chipper and much stronger yesterday. To the greeting of a reporter she replied:

"Indede, I'm gittin' along middlin'. My niece is so good to me. and her two boys are the best ever born. They try to take care o' me. Mike aries when I have nothing to atc. I tell you, sor, if it hadn't bin fur that fall I had I would have no nade of this money." On the table was some bread and cheese.

The old woman said that she cared for nothing more if she could only get bread and tea.
When she found out that her name was in the paper she exclaimed;
"Oh! Thank God. I have lived long enough to have my name in the paper. I'll live a long while after the grass grows green over lots of young people. I think I'll engage to get married if can. But, mind me, it'll be a rich man young people. I think I'll engage to get married il I can. But, mind me, it'll be a rich man next time."

About 4 o'clock visitors began to pour in Ladies in slik and plushes came to do a deed for charity's sake. As many as six of them were there at one time. One large, plain-looking woman came in with her arms full of bundles. She was evidently a mechanic's wife. As she took a bill out of her purse she said:

My husband sent home a Sux from his work, and I came right down. I can't bear to see anybody poorer than I am, and so old, too."

A large, benevolent-looking man pressed a roll of bills amounting to $25 into Mra. Hughes's shrivelled paim and departed without making known his identity. Two others brought about $30 aplece. The old lady objects to being taken to a charitable institution. She says they would soon get her out of the way. She now has about $150, which will be enough to keep the wolf from the door for some time.

some time.

The Sun has received aid for Mrs. Hughes amounting to $55, as follows: From A. E. Batoman, $25; Cash, $25; "No Name," $1; E. R., $2; Brown, $1; an Anonymous Contributor, $1.

Died as She Paid Her Taxes.

Catharine Dolan, a widow, 65 years old, living at 250 West Twenty-fifth street, paid taxes on her two tenements at 169 and 171 Mulberry street in the tax office, in the Stewauthorry street in the tax office, in the Stew-art building, yesterday noon, and had just put $95.60 back into her pocket, when she fell on the marble floor, as was supposed, in a faint. A man in the line of taxpayers ran to Cham-bers Street Hospital for a doctor, but long be-fore one came the woman was doad. Heart disease killed her. There was a hitch over got-ting the body removed, and it lay on a bench within the gaze of taxpayers for nearly two hours before an undertaker came and re-moved it.

MISS PINE A SCHOOL TRUSTER. Miss Commissioner Dodge Makes Mer Firet Speech to the Beard,

Commissioner Grace H. Dodge made her first speech yesterday since she was appointed to the Board of Education. She was listened to with the closest attention by her associate Commissioners, the majority of whom then sustained her by their votes. The subject which induced her to break the silence she had maintained was the appointment of aprincipal in Primary School No. 47. The school trustees had presented two reports, the majority being in favor of Miss Margaret Shea, and the minority in favor of Miss Eleanor Hillgrove. A report by the teachers' committee of the Board reversed the positions of the two candidates. Miss Dodge said that she had taken considerable interest in the matter, and had personally visited the school. She had been present at

NO CHOLERA HERE OR IN ITALE.

Italy, However, Will Politely Have Every Emigrant Medically Examined.

It was expected that the Alesia's 500 immigrants in quarantine on the Washington down yesterday. A transfer boat went down to the there awaited instructions. About 3:15 a Custom House officer on board refused to wait any longer, saying that he would not transfer bag gage after a certain hour. The transfer boat returned to New York, and ten minutes afterward instructions to take the passengers off were received by telegram from Health Officer Smith, who was in the city. A tugboat attached to the quarantine station put out to overtake the transfer boat, but without success. The removal will doubtless be made today, though possibly the baggage may not be brought up just now. The Alesia's passengers have been fifty-four days in quarantine, and the last case of choiers was developed on Oct. 7, forty days ago.

Mayor Hewitt received a note from Health Officer Bmith yosterday saying that the reason the Quarantine Commissioners are without funds is because of a conflict between the Democratic Executive and the Legislature of the State of New York.

The Mayor also received a letter from Secreward instructions to take the passengers off

CAUGHT AFTER A HARD CHASE. John Pender Overtaken by Steamboat Square

Policemen and Recognized in Court. John Pender, 27 years old, of 409 Hudson street, was seen by Patrolmen Henry and Fagan of the Steamboat squad at the foot of West Tenth street at 6 o'clock vesterday morning coming toward the pier in a rowboat, having ten large bundles of cotton on board. Pender when he saw the policemen, turned about and rowed away for dear life. This made them suspicious, and they called to him to stop. He

"If you want me you will have to catch me."
Capt. Gastlin came along at this moment, sprang into a rowboat with Henry, and gave sprang into a rowboat with Henry, and gave chase. Pender paid no heed to a threat to shoot, but rowed over to the Jersey shore. The tide was strong, and Pender would have escaped had not Fagan and another policeman sprung into a second boat and joined in the pursuit. Beveral shots were fired at Pender, and the two boats cornered him at the Perry street dock.

and the two boats cornered nim at the really street dock.

He was brought to Jefferson Market Court yesterday, and was recognized as an old timer and the pal of "Ed" Watson, a famous river thief, now serving an eighteen-years sentence. Pender was arrested three years ago on the charge of murdering a watchman at the dock at the foot of West Thirteenth street, on the statement of another "crook" named Larkin, who, when wanted to testify, could not be found. Pender was therefore discharged. Justice Duffy held him in this case for examination.

How Schlesinger Stole.

In the examination of the books of Harry E. Moss, manufacturer of clothing at 633 Broadway, who failed on account of the defalcation of Edward Schlesinger, who was his confidential clerk, checks were found which Schlesinger had drawn on the bank, the proceeds of which he used, aggregating over $50,000. Part of the money went to De Mott & Durant, stock brokers, and the balance Schlesinger kept himself. These checks were drawn in the latter part of October and the first part of November. The books show that on Oct. 24 he drew a sheck for $10,103, and shortly afterward he opened an account at the German Exchange Bank in his own name with a deposit of $10,133. This is supposed to be the $10,103 check, with $50 added. In the last balance of Mr. Moss's bank book returns have just been made of nine checks cashed by Schlesinger, which aggregate $33,000. The labor account was overdrawn by about $5,000 by Schlesinger. In the examination of the books of Harry Walters Shouldn't Show Big Bills. Theodore and Jesse Seligman, sons of Banker Seligman, were complainants in the Yorkville Court yesterday against William Willis, a waiter, 19 years old, living at 115 West Forty-sixth street. Willis was employed by Forty-sixth street. Willis was employed by the brothers, who live at 2 East Forty-sixth street. He left their employ and secured a situation with A. T. White of 560 Fifth avenue. Willis called twise at the Seligman mansion to get his clothing. The first time he called Theodore Seligman missed a $50 bill. After his next visit Jesse Seligman missed a $100 bill. Detective Cuff learned that Willis had exhibited a $50 bill and had sent a $100 bill home to his father. The waiter, when arrested, denied taking the money.

CATARRHAL DANGERS

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down, to breathe freely, elsep soundly and undisturbed o rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or sche; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste, and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a bless ing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economi-cal, and never failing. BANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.
